Ohio River on Rampage.

The Ohio river, on a rampage as a result of the melting snow in western Pennsylvania and West Virginia may reach a flood stage in East Liverpool, according to reports received at Dam No. 8 from Pittsburgh this morning.

At 10:30 o'clock the gauge at the dam registered 24.1 feet, and the river was rising about two inches an hour. Flood stage in East Liverpool is 33 feet.

The swollen river was expected to reach the 37-foot mark at Pittsburgh at noon, lockmen at Dam No. 8 were advised. The crest at Pittsburgh was not expected until late tonight or early tomorrow.

Lock men predicted a stage of 33 feet in East Liverpool. Back water from the river blocks the River road near Ralston's crossing at the 33-foot mark.

The Beaver river, which empties into the Ohio at Rochester, and Beaver creek which joins the river near the state line are not at flood stage.

AUTO DRIVERS RACE SATURDAY

100-mile Event on Program at Lisbon.

A 100-mile automobile race, in which 12 cars will be started, will take place at the Columbiana county fair grounds at Lisbon at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The race, promoted by Burgess E. Lewis, Indianapolis and W. R. Thomas, Pittsburgh, with the sanction of the American Automobile Racing association, will be conducted under speedway rules.

Three noted drivers will take part in the race. They are "Curley" Grandell, Canton, Half-mile dirt champion; Bill Chittum, Columbus, half-mile road track champion, and "Red" Searight, Indianapolis, also widely known automobile racer.

Eight of the 20 entrants will be eliminated in preliminaries, which will be run off at 10 a. m., leaving the 12 fastest cars in the race. Seven cars will be new machines.

One of the cars will be driven from the front wheels instead of the rear wheels. This is said to be an advantage, especially at the curves in the track where the rear wheels skid. This machine will be driven by "Red" Kynett, Detroit.

The Lisbon track is a half-mile course, cars making 200 laps to complete the 100-mile run. No charge will be made for parking in the fair grounds during the race.

Eyes on Primaries in California Today As Smith, Reed and Walsh Stage Battle

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—The eyes of the nation were on California today as her citizens trekked to the polls to record their preference for president.

The Republicans are agreed on Herbert Hoover, but today's primary vote will serve as an official endorsement of the delegation pledged to support him at Kansas City.

It is within the Democratic ranks that the primary assumes national significance. California democracy is divided among three leading candidates for the nomination.

The Democratic issue in California is sharply defined upon the rival claims of Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York, Sena-

A Bill for Thought.
Big Railroad Deals.
Devil Fish and Bootleggers.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review.)

THE McNary-Haugen bill is enthusiastically passed by the senate. There are elections coming. The house will pass it also, many that vote for it counting on the president's veto to counteract their vote.

THAT the president will veto the bill is probable and that it will be passed over his veto is probable.

According to wise men, some "best minds," far removed from farming, now approve the bill.

ANYTHING to make the farmers more prosperous would be welcomed, but the so-called "Farmers Bill" may surprise farmers when understood.

According to wise ones, the government would tell packers at what price they must buy hogs, and tell flour men at what price they must buy wheat. And the government would guarantee profits to packers and flour men. After they had sold all the American public would buy, at prices much increased, of course, packers, millers, cotton men, etc., would "dump" the balance in foreign markets at any price obtainable.

And whatever the "processes" lost by dumping, the government would make up in hard cash, taken from taxpayers. There is an equalization plan of doubtful value.

ANOTHER feature of the bill would be a complicated bookkeeping and inspection, involving gigantic armies of additional public servants.

When a packer buys a pig he changes it into scores of products. He would report profits and losses to the government, and the government would have to investigate every detail. The prospect of government price-fixing, with guarantees and inflation, worries some men that think.

BIG railroad combinations are good for everybody.

The Pennsylvania, having swallowed Mr. Lores's railroad lines, giving him a profit of about $23,000,000, will now establish a direct line from New York to Detroit.

It is probable, also, that Gen. Atterbury, head of the Pennsylvania system, will, before long, run flying machines from New York to Detroit, and a combination rail and air line from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

BIG combinations make big enterprises possible, and the law should encourage them.

The best thing would be one great system for the whole country—like the postoffice system—the ablest railroad men running it, with the people as owners. But since it is agreed that our government lacks the honesty and ability that makes government ownership successful in other countries, big mergers are next best.

BURNED RECORDS

Transfer Occurred After Teapot Dome Trial
Acquittal.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Harry F. Sinclair recently acquitted at the Teapot Dome oil trial, today told the senate oil inquiry that he received $757,000 of the Continental Trading company's $3,080,000 Liberty bond "slush fund."

Directors Accepted Bonds.

Sinclair told of holding the bonds for five or six years and of turning them over in the last ten days to the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company. He then destroyed all records he had kept of the bonds.

Sinclair said he turned the bonds over to his company only after he was acquitted here.

The board of directors of the Sinclair Crude Oil company accepted the bonds at a meeting held in the last ten days.

Fixed Quantity and Price.

Sinclair said a quantity of oil to be bought was fixed first at 30,000,000 barrels, but later increased to 33,333,333 barrels.

The price of $1.75 a barrel was finally agreed upon but under the final contract, it was paid to the Continental Trading company which in turn purchased the oil from Humphreys at $1.50. This profit was used to create the Continental Trading company's Liberty bond fund, in which Sinclair, Stewart, Blackmer and O'Neill participated.

Sinclair insisted that Blackmer had a claim to the Humphreys oil and that Blackmer forced him to buy his share of Humphreys oil from the Continental. Sinclair said he was satisfied with the $1.75 price.

Fog's invitation it is likely that a number of taxpayers in that section of the street from Third to Ninth that will be improved, will attend the session and present their views on the project.

The city originally planned a 39-foot improvement to provide a thoroughfare sufficiently wide for all purposes. However, since notices have been filed with property owners, a number of the latter have petitioned council to limit the street to 24 feet. A number have asked for the preservation of the trees that line the street. Others have expressed no preference. In order to obtain, if possible, the views of the majority, the mayor has asked Riverside avenue residents to go to council and voice their wishes in the matter directly.

The solons regularly are scheduled to convene tonight but in deference to the Dr. S. Parkes Cadman engagement in the high school, will adjourn until either Wednesday or Thursday night, the date to be decided upon when the municipal lawmakers get together tonight.

No War Hate

On all sides there is concrete evidence of the fact that the world has buried the enemies of the holocaust which swept Europe in 1914 and before it ended had involved most of the nations of the universe.

While echoes occasionally are heard of the conflict which engulfed Belgium and France when Wilhelm, late of Berlin, risked all on his declaration of hostilities nearly 14 years ago, and eventually forced all liberty-loving nations to cast their lot with the Allies, the beligerents have buried the so-called hatchet. In all nations there is more talk of outlawing war and less of engendering jealousies which lead to international disputes.

And aviation, an all-important factor in the late unpleasantness, has done more than anything else in spreading the message of good will.

Lindbergh set the pace by his hop to France. Then Chamberlin and Levine flew to Germany and Byrd and his companions jumped to the land of the polo. And since then, France, Italy and Great Britain have sponsored aerial flights which have accomplished much in the way of friendship.

And today America is singing the praises of three other intrepid flyers, Baron von Huenefeld and Capt. Koehl, Germans, and Major Fitzmaurice, of the Irish Free State.

If anyone doubts the importance of the first westward hop across the Atlantic from the standpoint of restoration of good will, they should read the newspaper accounts of the manner in which more than 2,000,000 men, women and children of all races and creeds acclaimed the crew of the Junkers monoplane, Bremen, when they made their triumphal march up Broadway in New York yesterday.

There is no hate in America.

Outstanding Republican

In the recent primary, Senator Simeon D. Fess, running as a candidate for delegate-at-large to the Republican convention, was defeated. Representative Theodore E. Burton, also running as a candidate for delegate-at-large, was overwhelmingly elected.

Senator Fess has been designated by the Republican national committee as temporary chairman and keynote speaker at the Kansas City convention—an honor and distinction which Senator Fess richly deserves, and to which he is justly entitled.

Now there is a movement in Ohio to force the national committee to reconsider its choice of temporary chairman and keynote—a movement to have Senator Fess ousted from this honorary post, and in his place another elevated—a man, according to proponents of the plan, whose "Republican eminence is unquestioned."

And already there is a movement under way to contest Senator Fess' candidacy for reelection, with Congressman Burton the one most prominently mentioned to compete for the senatorial nomination at the August primary.

On the face of things this would seem to be a nefarious scheme—this plan to oust Senator Fess as temporary chairman of the Republican convention, and the plan to oppose his candidacy for reelection.

Defeat of Senator Fess for a place in the "Big Seven" from Ohio to the Republican convention means absolutely nothing, insofar as any questioning of Mr. Fess' Republican eminence is concerned. It is true he was a candidate on the Willis' ticket, and it also is true that he had followed a hands-off policy in the battle between the Willis-Hoover partisans. But this policy of Mr. Fess does not mean that his Republicanism is open to criticism. Any attack on Mr. Fess' party affiliation is silly and brands those who lead the attack as ignorant of the fundamentals which make for good Republicans and ideal party workers.

Had Mr. Willis lived to conclude his fight for pre-ferment in Ohio there is little doubt that the result of the primary would have been entirely different—that Senator Fess would have run ahead of the ticket and been designated leader of the Ohio delegation to Kansas City.

Senator Fess was not repudiated, any more than the defeat of the Hoover candidates for delegate would have meant the repudiation of Congressman Burton—or any other man or woman aligned with the Hoover cause. And it is not a case of sour grapes which causes stalwart Republicans everywhere to look askance at the scheme to unhorse Senator Fess as Republican convention chairman and convention keynoter.

As a matter of cold fact Senator Fess today is pre-eminently an outstanding Ohio Republican, a United States senator who has ably represented his state, and a citizen entitled to the earnest consideration and whole-hearted respect of every man and woman voter.

Cargoes of Criminals

With over 400 convicts locked up in the steel cages in her hold—over 400 of the most vicious and desperate criminals convicted during the past twelve months in the courts of France—the prison ship, La Martiniere, proceeded from La Rochelle to Cayenne in French Guiana, where the most of them will probably spend the remainder of their lives.

This same ship carries a similar cargo yearly to the prison colony in New Guiana, life in which, if report is worthy of credence, is worse than death. In fact, many prisoners are said to voice preference for the knife of the guillotine, that the misery of colony life may be escaped.

Possibly the horrors of life in the colony have been exaggerated, but it is a significant fact that La Martiniere is the present-day representative of the line of prison ships which have been carrying cargoes of criminals to the colony for centuries, and we have never come upon anything in type to indicate that the colony has been overcrowded.

It's an awful fate which faces this cargo of French criminals, but they are the perpetrators of awful crimes.

In any event, the French people have the satisfaction of knowing that those who make the voyage in La Martiniere will not be freed within a few months or a few years by a parole board to prey upon them once more.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 1.—Ways and means whereby chemists can cooperate in providing relief for the American farmer by developing new markets for agricultural products will be one of the principal topics for consideration at the Institute of Chemistry of the American Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., July 23 to August 18, next.

Another aim of the chemists is to show farmers how to wipe out wastes, proper conversion of which, it is estimated, would mean an annual gain in the value of farm products of $3,000,000,000. That is a lot of money. It is more than any of the organizations clamoring for government relief for the farmers expects to get in any one year from congress, and if the chemists can do that for the embattled hosts of agriculture it appears quite possible that farm relief can be eliminated as a political and legislative issue.

Other major topics to be considered at the gathering of chemists include a study of the life processes, public health, and national defense.

Twenty-eight conferences, extended over a period of four weeks, in which scientists from the universities and the industries will describe developments in the more important fields of chemistry, will feature the work of the Institute, which, it is announced, will function as an international clearing house of knowledge in chemical science, and attract hundreds of chemists, both men and women, from the United States, Canada, and Europe. Fifty other topics will be dealt with in round tables.

Prof. F. C. Whitmore, chairman of the Division of Chemistry and Chemical Technology of the National Research Council, has been named Director of the Institute for the year. He is at the head of the Department of Chemistry at Northwestern University. Prof. Whitmore also will be one of the group of American lecturers of the Institute, his subject being Modern Organic Chemistry.

Prof. Arthur I. Kendall, of the Washington University School of Medicine at St. Louis, has been named lecturer on The Chemistry of Bacteria. Prof. Kendall was chairman of the Yellow Fever Commission of the International Board of Health, and acting chief of the Board of Health Laboratory of the Isthmian Canal Commission.

Other faculty appointments include Prof. Victor K. La Mer, Columbia University, "Modern Physical Chemistry;" Prof. Harry N. Holmes, head of the Department of Chemistry of Oberlin College, whose subject is "Colloids;" Prof. S. B. Hopkins, University of Illinois, "Modern Inorganic Chemistry;" Prof. W. T. Read, Texas Technological College, and formerly of Yale, "Modern Industrial Chemistry;" Prof. G. L. Wendt, dean of chemistry and physics at Pennsylvania State College, "Industrial Research."

During the week of July 23 seven conferences will be held on the general problem of developing new markets other than food for agricultural products by means of chemistry. A second group of seven conferences during the succeeding week will take up fertilizer, catalysis, hydrogenation, organic chemistry, antioxidants, and the utilization of energy of high intensity in producing chemical reactions.

The Institute is one of three big national gatherings planned by the American Chemical Society for 1928. The others will be held at St. Louis, April 16-20, and at Swampscott, Mass., September 10-14. About 2600 scientists are expected to attend each of these meetings. The committee in charge of the Institute at Northwestern includes Prof. N. E. Gordon, University of Maryland; Prof. S. B. Hopkins, University of Illinois; Dr. H. E. Howe, of Washington; Dr. C. E. K. Mees, of Rochester N. Y.; Prof. S. W. Parr, of the University of Illinois, president of the American Chemical Society; C. M. A. Stine, of Wilmington; Dr. W. R. Whitney, of Schenectady; and Frederick W. Willard, of New York.

Q. Why is the steamer duck so called? A. W. W.
A. This large duck found in South American waters gets its name because of its ability to propel itself along the surface of the water at great speed. This is attributed to the fact that at maturity this bird loses its power of flight.

Q. How may the color be restored in a faded crex rug? W. S. L.
A. A grass rug may be recolored by using any dye used on cotton material. Dissolve it in boiling water and apply it on the rug by means of a brush.

Q. What is meant by cousins-german? W. A.
A. Cousins-german are first cousins.

Q. Who founded the Florence Crittenton Home, and why was it so-called? O. H.

A. The Florence Crittenton Home was founded by Charles Nelson Crittenton, an American philanthropist who was born in Adams, New York in 1833 and who died in 1909. Crittenton went into the drug business in New York City in 1861, but after his five-year-old daughter Florence died in 1882, he devoted his time and wealth to the establishment of Florence Crittenton Homes. These were for homeless and unfortunate girls and their infant children. In 1895 the National Florence Crittenton Mission was incorporated to carry on this work. Of these missioa homes, more than 70 were organized in Mr. Crittenton's lifetime in all the larger cities of the United States.

Q. When boring down into the earth, at what rate does the temperature increase? What would the temperature at a depth of 25 miles? A. R. S.

A. The rate of increase of temperature varies, ranging from 40-80 feet to 1 degree F. The average indicates that at a depth of 25 miles, the temperature would be about 2200 degree F, which is above the melting point of iron and rocks.

Q. In finance, just what is treasury stock? E. O. H.
A. Treasury stock is a stock which a corporation is authorized to issue but which has not yet been sold.

Ritzy Rosey

It won't be long now! Soon, very soon, Ritzy Rosey will be cavorting about on hot sands with this new swimming suit. It is one of the new "buttonless" type—a step-in suit. The neck stretches to allow the wearer to put it on and immediately springs back into shape. It has the new square neckline, too.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, May 1.—There is no place where summer is so welcome in New York as the East Side. Slum dwellers, housed in for the winter, may now lean out their windows, and old men and women creep out to front stoops. The melting pot bubbles.

Children "sewed in" their winter clothes kick off their shoes and stockings and run shouting through the streets in loin cloths. The ancient barrel organ men, who disappear like flies at the first chill, are back again with long forgotten Broadway tunes.

Warm weather brings a spirit of the carnival to the Ghetto. Sidewalks are dotted with little soap box stands dispensing penny colored drinks—red, green, yellow and pink. Portable ice cream carts go through the teeming thoroughfares ding-donging hand bells.

Soon the fire escapes will be ballooned with bedding for the East Side sleepers to swelter through the long sultry nights. Pathetic little flower pots decorate the window sills. Pavements are chalked off for popular hop-scotch games.

Ice cream parlors—so popular with East Side girls and their beaux—have been refurbished, mirrors soaped with fancy flowers and covered with fly netting. Aproned housewives go bareheaded through the streets to their push-cart shopping.

Over on the Bowery the bread line has almost vanished, and that gaunt, drab crowd that clots in front of the rescue missions for hot coffee and a flop has spread to the grassy softness and startle beauty of the public parks.

Glam patrons of 25-cent lodging houses no longer sit at upstairs office windows—puffing silently at pipes and staring. They, too, are occupying benches in the public square. The cellar coal and kindling shops have changed their signs to "Ice." Summer has arrived on the East Side.

In tenement districts one finds more tempting food displayed than in luxurious sections. In Ghetto streets, for instance, there are windows filled with pickled and chow-chow, fruit pies with heavy brown crusts, pails of rich golden apple butter, pickled beets mixed with red and green peppers, sugar cookies with jam hearts and sprinkled with cinnamon and cloves, ginger bread with snails of white frosting and candied apples flecked with citron. In the aristocratic sections the delicatessen windows show caviar, imported snails and such la-de-dahs.

On a recent visit to Paris I introduced a friend to cooked snails in the shell at L'Escargot, the famous snail cafe where the little black aproned waiter resembling Chaplin is always so gravely cockeyed. Usually demonstrative, my friend sat silently on the edge of the chair featuring a clown white puller and swallowing hard. Afterward he confessed, feeding the snails surreptitiously to my dog under the table.

The gourmet, however, will tell you if you care to listen that snails are the cleanest and most palatable of all sea food. They feed only on delicate vegetation whereas the lobster is a scavenger feeding on offal. Yet the lobster is far more popular. The snail seems too intimately associated with the grub worm for digestive comfort. Incidentally, when the lobster loses a claw it grows another.

Sea food cafes in America rarely list ice cream on the menu on account of the belief lobsters and ice cream form a fatal mixture. This is not true, according to the best medical opinion. But don't try them out on my say so. I once told a fellow New York streets were safe for pedestrians. He came around to call several weeks later in a wheel chair.

Other Editors Say

A TobaccoSmoking Baby.

One would be glad to believe that there is nothing more than a hoax in the story of a three-year-old child in Seattle who has reached the point where he will not eat unless furnished with a clear to smoke each day before dinner. It is said that the child had an old pipe to chew on when teething, and had begun to smoke cigars when only a year old.

One wonders—or does one really need to wonder?—what is the character of the parents who could so misuse a helpless baby as to lead it into this habit from the very first year of its life. Believe what one may as to effect of tobacco on the health of adults, it is not too much to say that anyone is a fool who would seriously argue that a mere baby could use tobacco as described in this case without serious injury.

If the story is actually true, there should certainly be some agency in Seattle which, now that the facts are known, will take this child away from parents so take to their parental responsibility and give it a fair chance for life and health.—Columbus Dispatch.

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy.

Are you quick to judge and condemn on circumstantial evidence?

Does it require but little to cause you to form a harsh opinion or to charge a friend with disloyalty?

Yet as you look back over your life you may find much that might have been misjudged had your friends chosen to condemn you.

Then why do you so easily believe the worst in others?

Perhaps some of your finest friendships have been destroyed by allowing your imagination far too much leeway.

One must have imagination to get along in the world but it is easy to let imagination go too far.

It is especially easy in judging another's actions or words.

Your most intimate friends do not always deem it advisable to explain everything to you.

Nor should you expect to learn their secrets—their private affairs that do not concern you, and to which you have no right.

Is He Proud of You?

By Edna Wallace Hopper. What a glowing, happy feeling to know you can give someone the thrill of pride! In this exacting age, with standards constantly rising, it requires faultless grooming. But how well worth the time!

One of the greatest helps I have found to lend the "knowing touch" to a smart appearance is my powder base, Youth Cream. It gives your skin the perfect smoothness of chiseled beauty. This stamps you knowing the art of attracting.

I give credit for the discovery of Youth Cream to France, where I have always gone in search of the ultra in cosmetic art.

Just a bit of this delightfully fragrant cream smoothed over your face after cleansing gives your powder the air of "being at home." It's all just part of your skin.

"SADIE THOMPSON" SCREEN WINNER

"Sadie Thompson" came to town yesterday and won her way into the hearts of one of the most enthusiastic audiences ever to attend an opening at the American theatre—and how! This new Gloria Swanson picture, with the gorgeous Gloria in the strongest emotional role of her career, with Raoul Walsh as director, and with a story that builds up and up from one startling climax to another, is real entertainment. Such entertainment, in fact, that once under the spell of Miss Swanson's dramatic wiles, one is far away from the theatre before realizing that during the entire picture she does not wear a single style "creation."

"Sadie" is not that kind of girl, that's all. She would like to be a fashion plate, but doesn't know how. But she is one of the most fascinating, appealing and sympathetic characters ever to flash on the silver screen.

Raoul Walsh, the director, is great in his portrayal of the Marine sergeant, "O'Hara," and Lionel Barrymore's interpretation of the reformer, "Alfred Atkinson," is one of the real highlights of the picture. Other excellent characterizations are those of Blanche Frederick, as "Mrs. Atkinson," Charles Lane, as "Dr. McPhail," Florence Midgley, as "Mrs. McPhail," James A. Marcus, as "Joe Horn," the trader, Will Stanton, as "Quartermaster Bates."

But the attainments of the cast are due not only to their individual talents, but to the strength of the story, which was adapted from W. Somerset Maugham's stirring tale of the South Seas, "Miss Thompson." It is one of the most powerful studies of human emotions ever screened.

The titles by C. Gardner Sullivan are to the point and altogether excellent. And the photography, by Oliver Marsh, George Barnes and Robert Kurrie, is beautifully done and the settings are completely in the mood of the story.

In brief, there can be little doubt that "Sadie Thompson" is Gloria Swanson's most notable contribution to the screen.

Mrs. Cecil Casto, who recently underwent an operation in the City hospital, is improving.

Harry Hancock is confined to his home on West Seventh street by illness.

Misses Ruth Manderbach and Birdie Hinton of East Fourth street have returned home after a brief visit in Smithfield.

Rev. W. H. Baker, pastor of the First Church of Christ, and Simon Hall, John Scott, Kurt Berger and George Esenhuth and Mesdames John S. Scott and Oliver C. Vorey and Misses Elizabeth Vorey and Hazel Bradford and Errett Scott and Ira Sayre attended the Youth convention of the Churches of Christ in Columbus last week.

Ralph Gattrell is confined to the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Joseph Manypenny, Dresden avenue, with a broken arm.

LLOYD'S "SPEEDY" IS COMEDY HIT

Again Harold Lloyd has registered a big success as a comedian and film producer. His latest Paramount released comedy entitled, "Speedy," arrived at the Ceramic theatre yesterday, and from all accounts, it surpasses anything yet attempted by the versatile film star—if that is possible.

Characteristic of all Lloyd comedies, and perhaps the biggest factor of the screen comedian's success lies in his ability to inject good, wholesome and novel comical situations into his films. With "Speedy," Harold has come up to his standard, and many new and hilarious sequences are features of the picture. Everything is new, and treated in a typical Lloyd manner.

The bespectacled comedian is said to be a stickler for authenticity in his pictures, which leads us to believe is the reason for the many interesting scenes of New York city incorporated within the film. Transporting an entire company to New York for the sake of authentic atmosphere is ambitious, and helps swing the picture along in a delightfully smooth manner.

One of the surprises in this latest Lloyd effort, is the appearance of Babe Ruth himself, who figures in one of the baseball sequences. His appearance and subsequent performance adds to the already bright lustre of the comedy.

But the great laugh in store for all those who see the picture, is the highly amusing sight of a horse-drawn street car traveling through the heavily congested streets of New York with Harold at the helm, or in this case, the driver's reins. The antiquated mode of transportation is the subject around which Harold has built his bright story.

Ann Christy is Harold Lloyd's new leading lady, and accomplished actress she is. There is every reason to believe she will fulfill all that is expected of her in the future.

30 Years' Experience Behind Hall Plumbing

Expert Workmanship and Highest Quality Materials go Into Every Job Done by This Local Firm.

Thirty years' experience in practical plumbing!

That's the recommendation that sends property owners with their plumbing and heating problems to Sam H. Hall, Lincoln Avenue, and that's the guarantee that stands back of every job that Sam Hall does.

Hall materials and Hall workmanship, both of which are always up to standard (and that standard leaves little to be desired) are found throughout the city and the East Liverpool district. In other words, the Hall brand of workmanship is printed so indelibly on the job, in quality, master craftsmanship and enduring satisfaction that this firm's work is at once outstanding and, as well, complementary to the city's industrial progress.

The business house or the individual—it makes little difference—must advance or go back; there is no stopping at a given point. There must be progress or retrogression.

Just as the proof of the pudding is in the eating, so the proof of the plumbing is in the using and Hall workmanship has never come out second best. A steady, consistent growth in the firm's business in its existence of more than a score of years testifies to satisfactory results.

Sam H. Hall gives to each customer the cumulative value of approximately 30 years of experience in the plumbing and heating business. For five years or more he followed the trade and then decided to open a shop of his own. Native business sagacity plus the ability to do the work just a little better combined to promote the success of his venture from the very outset. And, it might be said, the desire to give the man who pays the bill everything possible in satisfaction and enduring results had considerable to do with the fact that the firm is listed today among the most substantial concerns of its kind in the district.

Workmanship and materials — a great combination. When both are faultless, the job is insured from all angles.

Kohler enameled bathroom and kitchen ware and the Rud Instantaneous automatic heater are among the leading sellers in the Hall line.

Take the bathroom for instance.
Your bathroom ought to be a place that you'd be proud to show your friends. Why not spruce it up?

You can modernize an old fashioned bath tub by putting in a modern Kohler built-in tub or pedestal lavatory as easily as you can spruce up a living room by redecorating the walls.

And don't just guess at what the price might be. Go see and talk with Hall. It may not cost nearly as much as you might guess to put beautiful, Kohler fixtures in your bathroom, or to add to your home the convenience of another bathroom.

The thing to do is to find out and this is just another way that Hall can prove his service to you. If you are building a brand new house, if you are fixing up an old one, Hall is at your service to help you get just what you want—the best plumbing fixtures; expert and reasonable workmanship; and prices that are RIGHT. If you are not certain as to the design or the layout of your new bathroom or proposed remodeling job, Hall's many years of practical experience can help you solve the problem. And, moreover, it doesn't cost you anything for this.

Reliable advice and suggestions on plumbing and heating problems will be given gladly and the recipient may be assured that he is safe in following them.

Lots of people are surprised to find that Kohler enameled plumbing ware is within reach of the average family pocketbook, but it's a fact. One of the reasons, possibly, is that Hall is as careful to figure his prices reasonably as he is to do his work expertly.

And there's the kitchen — Is your kitchen efficiently arranged? Is it efficiently equipped? Is your kitchen sink modern, attractive, convenient?
Most women—by far the majority — spend an average of six hours a day in the kitchen for the kitchen is the workshop of the home. You can have a gleaming white Kohler enameled sink installed in your kitchen for very little money and it will last a lifetime.

Sam Hall carries not only all of these things, kitchen and bathroom ware, high grade stuff at reasonable prices, but everything and anything that might be needed in the plumbing and heating line.

He is equipped to take care of practically any kind of a job in either line, no matter how small or how large and the small jobs receive just as much careful attention and thoroughness in their execution as the bigger jobs.

While contract work keeps him busy in the summer time, repair calls are frequent in the fall and winter.

Hall operates a service truck and that means time saved in trips to and from his shop. And all that means reduced time costs, more work and consequent savings in the total expense.

You will find it mighty difficult to improve on the Hall type of service, if at all. Call him up or go in and see him and let him advise you on your next job.

With Death Knell of Fair Sounded, School Officials May Acquire Acreage for Athletic Field.

LISBON, May 1.—The board of education at East Palestine has asked the board of directors of the East Palestine Fair association for a price to be set upon its holdings.

Recently the association sold the grand stand and stalls, thus sounding the death knell of the East Palestine fair.

The East Palestine school board seeks the old fair grounds for athletic purposes.

The fair association is a private enterprise, and hereafter there will be only one fair held in Columbiana county annually, and that will be at Lisbon.

Foreclosure proceedings have been filed by the Union Savings and Loan company against Roy W. Manypenny and others, of 850 Fairview street, East Liverpool, to recover a loan of $1,700 advanced to the defendants on March 21, 1925. The petition shows there is now $1,743.35 due.

ROAD JOB GOES TO C. S. BIERY

LISBON, May 1.—County commissioners announced today that when bids were recently opened for the grading and construction of drainage structures on the new Homeworth North Georgetown road, it was discovered there was an error in computation of Leroy Irish of Alliance.

This error has caused the commissioners to award the contract to Charles S. Biery, also of Alliance, who was the next lowest bidder. There was less than $50 difference in the bids of Irish and Biery.

Biery has informed County Surveyor or Lloyd C. Kirk that he proposed to begin work within two weeks.

WEATHER HITS COUNTY CROPS

Farmers Behind in Spring Work—Fruit is O. K.

LISBON, May 1.—One year ago farmers in Columbiana county had oats sown and most of the corn acreage plowed. There is a decided change in the agricultural situation this year, due to weather conditions during April, and so far very little oats have been sown. Farmers are from two to three weeks behind with spring work.

Wheat fields are in poor condition and many fields will be sown in oats. Live stock was on full feed during April.

Plowing is late. As a result crops will be late maturing.

No fruit has been reported damaged by the cold weather.

Temperature during April was five degrees below normal, and snow fell on six different days, with rainfall about normal.

The normal temperature in the county during the last 36 years, according to Weather Observer Lawrence H. Copeland, was 48, with the average precipitation three inches.

The mean temperature last month was 54 with the mean minimum 32 and the mean 43. The maximum was 79, reached on the 5th and 6th. The coldest day was the 16th when 16 above was recorded. Total precipitation was 3.05 inches, and the heaviest in 24 hours was April 25th. The snowfall was 1.5 inches.

Only four clear days were noted. Sixteen were partly cloudy and 10 cloudy.

BETHESDA CHURCH UNIT FORMED

LISBON, May 1.—A Good Fellowship club was organized Sunday night at special services in the Bethesda Presbyterian church, Franklin township. The following officers were elected:

President, F. H. Johnson; first vice president, J. L. Grubbs; second vice president, E. D. Emerick; secretary, E. J. Cox; treasurer, Lawrence H. Copeland.

Address was delivered by Rev. John R. Crosser.

Meetings will be held the first Thursday of the month in the church.

First Take-off and Landing on American Field.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.
NEW YORK, May 1.—Captain Hermann Koehl, pilot of the trans-Atlantic monoplane Bremen, slipped out of bed at an unearthly hour this morning, dashed up to the Curtiss flying field and enjoyed himself immensely by making four short flights in the Junkers monoplane, F-13, sister ship of the Bremen.
The trip was entirely unexpected, and not on the program. The genial captain's companions, Baron Gunther von Huenefeld and Major James Fitzmaurice, were sleeping soundly at the time, recuperating from the effects of their strenuous day yesterday when 2,000,000 New Yorkers turned out to acclaim them. None of the flyers got to bed until after midnight.
45 Minutes in Air.
Captain Koehl spent a total of 45 minutes in the air. He said he wanted to get at the controls of a plane again. The captain, with the true instinct of a born flyer, did exactly what Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh did after New York acclaimed him—got away by himself in the air.
It was the first time Koehl had taken off and landed on an American flying field while handling the controls. The captain went to the field by automobile, accompanied by A. A. Schroeder, engineer for the Junkers company. It was believed that the F-13 may be the plane that will be used by Koehl, von Huenefeld and Fitzmaurice on their triumphal tour of the United States which starts a week from today.
Their present schedule calls for their appearance in Washington tomorrow to receive congratulations of President Coolidge. They will return to New York by train Thursday morning.
Fitz Gets 30-day Leave.
Smiling like a happy boy, Captain Koehl returned to the flyers' suite at the Ritz-Carlton from the flying field at 10:05 a. m. and rejoined the Baron and Fitzmaurice. "Fitz" as New York has learned to call the slim Irishman, was delighted by the news carried in an International News Service dispatch from Dublin that his request for a month's leave of absence had been granted.
The baron was still under the spell of New York's tumultuous reception while he was getting shaved this morning. He told Charles H. Ritz, a barber at the hotel, that "they can do things like it only in America." The baron who has the reputation of being a liberal tipper, sought to give the barber a tip but the latter held up a politely firm hand in refusal.
It was the baron's thirty-sixth birthday, and by radio from Berlin he received congratulations from his mother, the Baroness von Huenefeld. A white birthday cake a foot and a half across and marked with a single big candle was brought into the flyers' suite.
The flyers were carefully guarded against any radical demonstrations in connection with May Day. The bomb squad a-armed four picked men to join the police squad protecting the German-Irish trio.
Shortly before noon the three flyers, accompanied by two other famous flyers, Bernt Rabin and "Duke" Schiller, were taken to Park Row where they visited newspaper offices, stenographers, clerks, printers and other help despatched their posts and rushed pell-mell to various points to gain a glimpse of "Fitz," Capt. Koehl and the baron, who appeared on the flyers everywhere, caused repeated outbursts of cheering.

RUBBER SOLES "KICK" KISSING

BERLIN, May 1.—A secret of greatest importance for all sheiks was revealed today by Dr. Pontoppidan in a Danish medical journal. When kissing a girl, he said, a man should wear rubber soled shoes. A kiss, Dr. Pontoppidan explained, is merely an electric shock caused by the touch of one pair of lips on another. This shock is increased if the kisser wears rubber soled shoes which isolate him from the ground and help him store up electricity.

REMUS WITNESS FACES 10-DAY JAIL SENTENCE

John S. Berger Held in Contempt by High Court.
MUST PAY FINE
Presented Jurors' Petition to Trial Judge.
CINCINNATI, May 1.—Efforts were under way here today to return John S. Berger, Los Angeles, Cal., amusement park promoter, from California to serve ten days in the Hamilton county jail and pay a fine of $250 for contempt of court in connection with the trial of George Remus.
The court of appeals was today on record as upholding the decision of Judge Chester R. Shook, in the criminal division of common pleas court, in sentencing Berger for contempt of court because of his presentation of a petition signed by members of the Remus jury seeking to quash an indictment charging him with perjury.
Berger, a witness for the "bootleg king" in his trial for the murder of his wife, was indicted during the course of the trial on a charge of perjury on behalf of Remus. Berger presented Judge Shook with a petition signed by members of the jury seeking to influence the court in quashing the indictment. He was immediately arrested on a bench warrant and tried for contempt. An appeal from the ten-day sentence and $250 fine was taken, but Judge Shook's decision was affirmed.

GUARDS ON JOB AS MINE OPENS

Belmont County Fears Outbreak of Rioting.
ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., May 1.—With ten coal mines now operating in Belmont county, and more reported ready to resume operations in the near future, authorities are taking every precaution against a possible renewal of violence and rioting.
Ten more national guardsmen were brought to camp Caldwell here yesterday, ostensibly as "relief workers," but Sheriff C. C. Hardesty admitted that trouble was feared at several points in the mining districts.
The "Save the Union" movement is said to be gaining much headway and many local unions are now controlled by this faction, union officials report. The 51 women who marched on the county jail here two weeks ago, and were arrested, are said to have been sympathizers of the "Save the Union" group.
At several mines, it is reported that two picket camps are maintained, one by the regular branch of the union organization and the other by the "Save the Union" forces.

CHURCHES WILL OFFER THANKS FOR CHICAGO PRIMARY VICTORY

CHICAGO, May 1.—Several weeks ago when Chicago was in the throes of a murderous bomb-throwing political campaign, churches throughout the city on an appointed day held special services and prayed for the "redemption of Chicago."
Assuming that the forces of law and order were triumphant at the recent primary election, in answer to their prayers, these same churches will hold another special service on Memorial Sunday, May 23, to offer thanks.
The thanksgiving program was presented to the union ministers by the Rev. Philip Yarrow, chairman of the political action commission of the Chicago Church Federation. His pronouncement referred to the recent "victory of good government for which we should give thanks."

BISHOP BAST GOES TO MEET OF METHODISTS

Prelate's Arrival at Kansas City Unexpected.
TRIAL LOOMS
Quadrennial General Conference Opens With Communion.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 1.—Arrival here last night of Bishop Anton Bast, Copenhagen, Denmark, central figure in a church scandal that has rocked religious circles in two continents, was an unexpected development in the opening here today of the quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church.
Bishop Bast, selected to the episcopacy in 1920, was accused in Denmark of imprudent conduct and misapplication of mission funds. He was suspended from office pending a church trial. However, he was tried in Danish courts, convicted and sentenced to serve three months in prison. His arrival here, wholly unannounced, is expected to result in an immediate church trial which probably will result in his expulsion or excommunication.
For the first time in the history of the church, a general conference opened with a communion service for delegates. The impressive service today was led by Bishop Joseph F. Berry of Philadelphia, senior bishop of the church, with thirty-six other bishops assisting.
The month long conference is being held in Convention hall.

KNAPP TRIAL IS POSTPONED

State's Witness in New York Case Missing.
COURTHOUSE, Albany, May 1.—Failure of the state's star witness to appear today resulted in the postponement until 10 o'clock tomorrow of the trial of Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former secretary of state, who is charged with stealing $2,875 of the $1,200,000 1925 census fund.
Clara Blanche Knapp, middle-aged step-daughter of Mrs. Knapp, is the witness who failed to appear.
Just as the trial was about to get under way, George Z. Medalle, special deputy attorney general, announced the receipt of a telegram from a Rutland, Vermont, law firm saying it had been retained by Miss Knapp to fight the subpoena directing her to come to Albany and testify against her step-mother.

TODAY

If the people are not intelligent enough to watch a few big concerns they would not be able to watch a lot of little concerns.
WHEN a dog, pursuing, gets too close to a skunk, something happens and the dog knows better next time. A devil fish, pursued by blackness the water with a cloud of blackness. The electric eel shocks those that seize it. The porcupine has his prickly protection. And from all these, the intelligent bootlegger has borrowed an idea.
POLICEMAN BEAUREGARD, of Trenton, Mich., decided to overhaul a fast car that looked like a rum runner. It was a rum runner. When Beauregard drew up close behind a cloud of poisonous gas streamed from the exhaust pipe and Beauregard fell over, unconscious. The bootlegger carried a tank of poison gas, connected with the exhaust.

GERMANY FIRST TO O. K. PLAN AGAINST WAR

Berlin Accepts Treaty Submitted by Kellogg.
OTHERS SILENT
Veiled Demand for Versailles Pact Revision.
WASHINGTON, May 1.—German acceptance of the United States' draft treaty for the renunciation of war added little today to the gloomy prospects of the broad venture, in the opinion of informed diplomatic observers here.
The German note constitutes an unqualified acceptance of the treaty submitted by Secretary of State Kellogg as a basis of negotiation among France, Great Britain, Germany, Japan, Italy and the United States. But it contributes nothing to the deadlock existing between France and the United States on the scope of the proposed general treaty.
German acceptance had been almost a certainty. No other power has replied.

WHY SELF-TREATMENT IS INADVISABLE.

The extent of troubles brought on or furthered by self diagnosis, self medication and the taking of well meant, though worthless, advice of friends cannot be surmised.
A sufferer from nasal catarrh tells of deafness brought on in this manner.
One friend advised that salt water be sniffed up the nose.
Another recommended a similar use of oil of eucalyptus.
The result was an abscess in one ear and incurable deafness in the other.
After all there is but one safe rule to follow—whenever you are ill enough to need medicine, you are ill enough to need the advice of a physician.
Let us fill your prescriptions.

Run-down?.....

Take Nature's advice

you need more BILE

NOBODY admires a run-down, tired, actually ailing man or woman. Jobs with good pay—social popularity—go to people who always radiate health; people who look alert and efficient.
If you feel languid and depressed; if you suffer from dizzy headaches, poor complexion, constipation—take Zilatone.
Zilatone, a remarkable new scientific discovery, is based on safe, natural principles. It does not drug the body, but contains the very same elements that Nature herself provides to keep the body healthy and normal.
An insufficient bile flow causes the intestines to become clogged with putrefying materials. Poisons and disease-breeding germs then spread through the body, robbing us of health, and often causing such serious ailments as heart and kidney trouble, gall stones, premature old age.
But by stimulating the bile flow and other digestive juices, Zilatone sweeps away intestinal poisons. Checks putrefaction. Purifies the blood. Benefits are so remarkable that soon you feel like a new person.

Taylor Topples Piazza For K. O. Victory In Sixth Round

Terrific Right to Jaw Ends Battle Abruptly

K. O. Sweeney Shades Mickey Hart in Semi-final; Davis Outpoints Kelly in Listless Preliminary.

Thirteen and a half rounds of fighting with Young Piazza in the F. O. E. arena here—eight in their first encounter and about five and a half last night—gave Harry "Slambang" Taylor the knock-out victory last night that he narrowly missed twice in their first hectic clash, when he swung a terrific right to the Pittsburgher's jaw and Piazza went down and out.

The fight last night, as far as it went, was almost a repetition of the two sluggers' first encounter in the East Liverpool ring. The McKeesporter, a couple of weeks ago, dropped Piazza twice to earn the decision and duplicated the feat last night with the exception that Piazza stayed down the second time he went to the canvas.

A hard right in the fifth round that clipped Piazza's chin and flopped him to the canvas for a count of nine really decided the battle. After that it was a question as to how long he could stay.

Taylor last night developed a versatility that was lacking to certain extent in his other fight here with Piazza. He used both right and left with equal dexterity and power. Both fists shot into Piazza's face and head with the lightning-like speed and sting of a rattlesnake's thrust. Piazza played a terrific left swing to Taylor's body and chin but the McKeesporter boy withstood the shock of the crushing blows and came back with punches to Piazza's face and head.

Prior to the opening bell managers, seconds and fighters squared off in a verbal joust in the center of the ring. Piazza's handlers objected to the strips of adhesive tape that Taylor had pasted on directly above his eyes, either to shade the Taylor optics or for some other unannounced reason. At any rate, Referee Al Watson ruled they should be taken off unless they were on there to protect cuts which, it seems, they were not. And so the tape came off.

They tore into each other in customary fashion at the bell and fans who suspected the pair might let down a little were pleasantly disappointed. They went at it hammer and tongs, milling and scuffling all over the ring and onto the ropes. They exchanged punches with reckless abandon. Just before the bell rang, Taylor winced after an exchange at close quarters and claimed a low punch. They shook fists and resumed hostilities.

The first, second and third rounds were about as even as they could make them. Taylor started off at a fast gait in the third, uncorking a right to Piazza's jaw. Piazza waded in with a left swing to Taylor's body and ran into a right to the chin. Piazza came out with a cut over the eye. But instead of slowing him up, the exchange apparently angered him and he drove after Taylor fiercely. He staggered Taylor with a hard left to the jaw and again swung rights and lefts to Taylor's body and chin to even up the score.

Piazza looked strong in the fourth, appearing better in this round against the McKeesporter boy than in any of the other 13 he fought with Taylor. He pummeled Taylor's body with lefts and swung occasionally to the jaw while Taylor puzzled the ringside by his seeming indifference.

However, he was probably getting set for the slaying in the sixth.

He tore into Piazza at the clang of the bell, hooking rights and lefts to Piazza's face. Piazza swung his left to the body and was clipped on the chin in retaliation. He dropped to the canvas and took nine. Taylor, endeavoring to follow up his advantage tore in. He jolted Piazza again with a drive that glanced off Piazza's earl Brooks and Leroy Smith, a pair of local favorites, gave a lively exhibition in the four-round preliminary. The two lads hammered at each other until it appeared they must drop from sheer exhaustion. It was a good draw.

Sharkey Flops Delaney Where Heeney Couldn't

End Comes in One Minute, 13 Seconds; Performance May Take Edge off Australian's Bout With Gene.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, May 1.—Tex Rickard found himself this morning with exactly one more peach in his garden of Madison Square than the sowing of seeds for the heavyweight harvest could account for.

CALLS GENE, TOM SECOND RATERS

NEW YORK, May 1.—Encouraged by his master stroke in knocking Jack Delaney out of the heavyweight picture in exactly one minute and 13 seconds, Jack Sharkey today issued a challenge to Jack Dempsey for a return match and labeled the impending title match between Gene Tunney and Tom Heeney as an exhibition between "two second raters." He feels he has regained his old place and intends to keep on fighting until he gets his chance at the title.

Sharkey is sure that Dempsey is coming back for at least one more fight and he wants to get even with the man he calls the "old tiger" who slashed him to pieces in seven rounds last June.

In exactly one minute and thirteen seconds of play, Jack Sharkey knocked Jack Delaney right out last night while a crowded house went berserk. Always a contrary cuss, he picked a most unfortunate moment for this exhibition of mastery.

For he it known by all these present that Tom Heeney the prominent human being, already has been declared in on that championship dividend with Tunney in July and here we have this Sharkey guy doing in less than a round what Heeney failed to do in fifteen. Tom, in fact, didn't even have Delaney on the floor or near it, unless you count the soles of his feet. Sharkey not only had him there three times in the first minute but kept him there the last time down.

Had Sharkey been an obliging sort, he would have turned in the performance two months ago and then all of Professor Rickard's plans would have gone through strictly according to script. But he didn't, so the professor got very smart and named Heeney as the challenger before further exposures could alter the situation. Upon which, the professor found no further reason for being smart and went right ahead matching Sharkey and Delaney just for the sake of filling an open date and the till.

The result today was that, with Heeney and Tunney definitely matched for July 26, at the Yankee stadium, Sharkey was a far better card than the man who in advance had been declared in on the championship killing. He was a superior attraction for several reasons, the main one being that he scored three knockdowns in one minute last night, which was exactly three more than had been tallied in fifty-two rounds of previous activity in the heavyweight Racket.

Delaney took everything and gave nothing. He may have struck a blow during the minute and thirteen seconds of action but I doubt if he did so in anger. The other guy, by comparison, was more like the Sharkey of the early rounds of the Dempsey fight. He went after Delaney from the bell, throwing right hands with abandon. The so-called rapier had just assumed an expression which meant to imply, you can't scare me with those kind," when one of them clipped him behind the ear.

Sharkey rushed to the attack again, swinging lefts and rights to Delaney's head without return. Steadying for a moment he set himself for a right cross. It nipped Delaney's jaw and would have been enough for a knockdown but the sailor added a left hook by way of emphasis. Delaney took a count of nine, and came up reeling. He reeled into a right up-percut and it was all over.

Meantime, a young man by the name of Johnny Risko was introduced from the ring last night. He was the man who beat Sharkey out of a decision only six weeks ago. So what does that make him? Really, Wilmered, you ask the darndest questions.

Dickey Books Practice Tilt For Laughlin

New Cumberland Squad at Newell Wednesday.

Manager Joe Dickey will send his Newell Homer Laughlin club into action against the New Cumberland nine of the Toronto Industrial loop tomorrow evening at 6 o'clock in a practice game at Newell park.

Dickey announced the following prospects for his lineup: Foster, left; T. Mosser or Densmore, second; Moore, short; Watson, third; A. Mosser, center; Bublin, right; Springer, first; Renaldi or Dittmar, catcher; Wright, Dugman and Drumm, pitchers. The Newell club is also considering a week-end contest with the East Side Civics at Youngstown.

HEENEY BEGINS TRAINING WORK

NEW YORK, May 1.—Tom Heeney, who arrived here from Europe yesterday, started light training today in preparation for his heavyweight title bout with Gene Tunney here in July. The New Zealander weighs 212 pounds.

East, West Contests Looming

Giants, Braves, et al. Plan First Invasion.

NEW YORK, May 1.—May bids fair to be a merry one for the western teams in the National League. They will stop the business of battling each other to a standstill at the end of this week when the eastern clubs go west. Brooklyn and New York will find the going tougher and the chances are that at least two of the western outfits will force to the front.

Considering the fact that Pete Donohue hasn't started yet and that Jackie May and Ethan Allen have just returned to duty, the weak-hitting Cincinnati Reds have been doing surprisingly well. They beat St. Louis yesterday, 6 to 4, and took third place away from the Red Birds.

Chick Hafey, St. Louis outfielder, crashed into a concrete wall while chasing a fly and suffered a slight concussion of the brain.

The Pirates made sixteen hits and nosed out the Cubs, 8 to 7. Brooklyn's high flying Robins ran into a blizzard of New York hits and were slaughtered by a 14 to 4 score. The Giants can regain the league lead by trimming the Robins again today.

Rogers Hornsby's Boston team, which is on a terrific batting spree, made nineteen hits, including four home runs, and walloped the Phillies by a 13 to 6 count.

The Yankees' 8 to 4 victory over the Senators marked New York's fourth straight win and Washington's seventh consecutive defeat.

The world's champions now lead Cleveland by more than 100 points. The St. Louis Browns handed Buckeye a terrible shelling and swamped Cleveland, 10 to 3.

Rube Walberg of the Athletics shaded Charlie Ruffing of the Red Sox in a 4 to 1 duel.

The toothless Tigers chased Red Faber to the showers, ruining the veteran's 1928 debut, but couldn't do any business with Al Thomas and lost to the White Sox, 10 to 6.

MIDLAND LEAGUE LAUNCHES SEASON

MIDLAND, Pa., May 1.—Despite a strong cold wind which slowed up the first several innings, Midland's recreation ball league opened with a strong start yesterday afternoon when the Order department squad won by a 2-run margin from Accounting team. Final score was 10-8.

After running through six straight innings without completing a trip around the circuit, Accounters made a strong finish in the seventh and eighth, but failed to overcome the lead piled up by the Order department.

Score by innings: Accounters 000 000 440—8 10 11 Order 000 024 022 000—10 8 5

Batteries: Accounters, Quinn and Strome; Order, Reese and White.

Stolen Idols

A Romance of the Sea
By Frank L. Packard.

"I see!" said Bob Kingsley.
"Well, that's about all I've got to tell," Captain Scarface squinted at the setting sun—and then glanced questioningly at Bob Kingsley. "There ain't much daylight left," he observed, "and if I'm to pull out, I'd better be going."
Bob Kingsley's hand went to the other's shoulder.
"Yes," he agreed; "we've about got to the bottom of our yarns, and I think you ought to push off at once—for even with good weather it'll take you some weeks around four days to make Luaua."
Captain Scarface nodded—and together they walked to the schooner's rail.
"North End. One-half mile from creek to crumbled hillside. Due west fifty paces from burnt tree," said Captain Scarface in a lowered voice. "Is that it?"
"That's it," said Bob Kingsley. "But perhaps I'd better write it down for you?"
"Tain't necessary," said Captain Scarface. "I just wanted to be certain I'd got it straight."
"That's it," repeated Bob Kingsley.
Captain Scarface swung himself half over the rail—and paused.
"I ain't sure I'm doing right about this—going off and leaving you here," he muttered dubiously.
"You're doing the one thing I'd rather you'd do than any other," declared Bob Kingsley earnestly; "the one thing it would help a lot to know was all right if everything else went wrong. And on top of that, as I told you I don't see where you could do a bit of good here."
"Right you are, then!" assented Captain Scarface, though the dubious note still lingered in his voice. "I ain't going to argue it over again." He lowered himself into his waiting dinghy. "But you take care of yourself, lad! Them yellow rats are tricky, and they can bite deep."
"I will!" promised Bob Kingsley grimly; and then almost to himself: "I've a lot more reason to want to live now than I had before."
"What d'ye say?" inquired Captain Scarface.
"I said you needn't worry about me looking out for my own hide," smiled Bob Kingsley. "So long! Good luck!"
The boat was pulling away from the schooner's side. "Don't you crowd on too much sail, lad!" bawled Captain Scarface. "I'm sore disappointed now; but I ain't going to be gone long, and I'm still counting on getting in on the showdown!"
Bob Kingsley waved his hand.
"Right-o!" he shouted back.
He watched the boat disappear amongst the shipping; and then, turning away from the rail, he began to pace up and down the deck, back and forth—interminably.

CHAPTER 48.

Verna! He felt the blood burning in his face. It was quite easily understood how she had got aboard Captain Scarface's schooner unknown to the Crowleys, as she had been in no sense a prisoner at Kalawa; though why she had done so, and why she was so desperately eager to reach Singapore, since it was no longer the purpose of bringing him to account for her brother's death, was an entirely different question, and one to which he had no answer. But neither of these things mattered now in comparison with something that was so infinitely greater to him that everything else sank into insignificance. Her changed attitude toward him! How much did it mean? How much dared he hope?
Up and down the deck he paced. A schooner put out to sea. Subconsciously he noted it—Captain Scarface, of course. It began to grow dark. Still he paced the deck—battling against the temptation, the urge of every fiber of his being to order a boat away and go ashore and seek her out. He wanted to see those blue eyes meet his without the least flinching in them that had been his portion until now; he wanted to see a smile on those lips that had never yet smiled for him; he wanted to stand before her as a man free to plead his cause. He wanted—God, with all his soul!—he wanted her! But he could not go. He must not go. Not yet! Not now! It was too dangerous—for her. They, Chen-shu, and the others, did not know that she was in Singapore. But, though they had made no move all day, they might be watching him, Bob Kingsley. And in that case to go to her would be to betray her presence to them. True, they knew she no longer had one of the idols, and, as he had told Captain Scarface he did not think she was longer in danger on that account; but there was no telling what Chen-shu, beaten so far at every turn and looking for revenge, might do, if given an opening, to one whom he had called his, Bob Kingsley's, "beloved."
"Beloved!" Bob Kingsley's lips shaped the word softly—and he smiled out into the darkness that had completely fallen now.
And then suddenly the faint swish of oars close alongside attracted his attention. Who was it this time? Was something breaking at last? He had been hoping some word would come from Java Dick. Perhaps this was Java Dick. He stepped to the rail and peered over the side. Yes, that's who it was! Not Java Dick in person; but—he could just make out the man as the other stood up in the boat—Tao Lin.
"Hello, Tao Lin!" he said.
"Hello, Black Bob!" Tao Lin answered. "I could not come until it was dark for fear it might be known that one from Java Dick had been sent to you. Java Dick is waiting at his place. He has found out what you wanted to know."
"Right!" exclaimed Bob Kingsley eagerly. "Shall I go with you, or in my own boat?"
"It would be better to take your own boat, Black Bob," Tao Lin replied; "for it would not be well if we should be seen together; and, also, you will want the boat for your return. The boatmen are all robbers. Why should you pay their thieves' price?"
"Right!" said Bob Kingsley again—and five minutes later he was rowing shorewards.
Tao Lin was already back at his fronting board and the ubiquitous shirt when Bob Kingsley entered Java Dick's.
"Black Bob has come quickly," smiled Tao Lin in greeting. "He is but a minute behind me."
"I wouldn't be likely to waste any time under the circumstances," Bob Kingsley smiled in return. "Where's Java?"
"He waits," answered Tao Lin. "He is in his room that no one enters but himself, and where it will not be known that he talks with Black Bob." Tao Lin turned, and reached out his hand, pressing it against the wall. "See!" A door behind the ironingboard, that Bob Kingsley had not even noticed, opened, or, rather, seemed to slide back and disappear in the wall itself—and what appeared to be an unlighted passage was disclosed. "Hurry, please, Black Bob," Tao Lin went on quickly. "It would be an ill day for me if any one entered from the alleyway as you have entered and saw what you now see. The door of Java Dick's room is just inside and at your left hand."
Bob Kingsley stepped briskly through into the passage—and then, a presence of danger sweeping suddenly upon him, he swung sharply around to go back again. Too late! The sliding door closed swiftly before him, and he found himself standing in utter darkness. He heard a rush of slipped feet, the swish of garments. An invisible hand was at his throat. He tore it savagely away. It came again. Other hands clawed at him and fastened themselves upon his arms. He struck out blindly with one hand, as he tried to wrench his revolver from his pocket with the other—but the weapon was snatched from him even before he had it free. And now he struggled madly—struggled with the fury of desperation—struggled futilely. He was in the center of a ring of snarling, panting humans packed so close around him that he could scarcely move; his hands and arms held so tightly that he could no longer strike a blow. And then, of a sudden, his feet were jerked from under him, and he was lifted up bodily in the arms of his captors. The next instant the door of a lighted room was opened, and he was catapulted headlong through the doorway. He struck with his face upon the floor. The door closed. He sat up, and, dazed for a moment, rubbed his hand back and forth across his eyes. It had been quickly done, the whole affair could not have lasted more than a minute, and now he was alone—they had thrown him in here as they would have thrown a sack of meal. He laughed harshly. No, they would have been more careful with the meal; the sack might have broken open—

BRIBERY CHARGE

Tells of First Case he Had in Old Trumbull.

COLUMBUS, O., May 1.—"I just want to see the old home town once more, to see the old courthouse, to talk to my friends and to tread those happy paths of my boyhood days."

Clarence Darrow, world-famed Chicago criminal lawyer, said today that these were his only reasons for returning to Warren, O., to defend the case of James Monsene, twice convicted of attempting to bribe the sheriff of Trumbull county at Darrow's old home town, Warren.

"It was just fifty years ago this year that I was old enough to be admitted to the bar, and Warren is where I started," Darrow said. "I was born in Trumbull county and there are a lot of friends I've been longing to see for years and years."

"I did swear that I wouldn't defend another case—but this is different. I haven't practiced law for some time and I may have forgotten a lot, but I'm going back home and do my best."

"I remember just as plain as though it was yesterday when I got my first case in Warren. I was young, and full of pep, ready to lock horns with anyone."

Darrow said that he knew few of the details of the case against Monsene, known in Warren as "the king of bootleggers."

"If it wasn't for the chance to go home, I wouldn't have taken it," he said.

Darrow, little showing his 71 years, looked out of place in his luxurious Venetian suite in a local hotel.

The noted lawyer was just returning from breakfast—at eleven thirty, when a bellboy dashed in with a shabby brown hat.

"Damn it, I'm always forgetting something," Darrow exclaimed.

The trial is to begin May 7.

Wabash Makes Relic of First Electric Light

WABASH, Ind.—Forty-eight years ago this spring on a Saturday evening the city turned its eyes to the top of the courthouse here to see the lighting of the first municipal electric lights in the world.

When the power was turned on to the four strange lights on top of the highest building here, Wabash became the first city in the world to be lighted with electricity.

Today there is a move under way here to erect a monument here with a glass enclosure for one of the first four lamps. The lamp was found buried in a pile of trash.
